LONG SHOTS WIN AT FAIR GROUNDS.

Four of Six Races Go to Horses Held at Big Prices in the Betting.

Jockey Dale Gives the Horse Poor Ride and Favorite Displays No Energr.

Long shots had their day at the Fair Grounds yesterday. Most of the long-priced horses that won were at unreasonably long prices. As good as 20 to 1 was laid against Happy Chappy and as good as 10 to 1 against Action while to to I was a long price against as good a horse as The Meswere favorites, and Elastic ran pileably bad race. He had nlight cut off and bumped, and in no within twenty pounds of his race.

The start in the first race wa Light Opera, a bad actor, was port. Action was off running in was lucky to win, as Fair Lass Opera, who got off behind the right upon him at the finish.

The day was entirely without fo horses ran well, and, save Elastic even if the long shots won. As t are ht present, there is no such a favorite at the Fair Grounds. To-day the Carr gate will be to seend race if the track is not t

Over at Indianapolis they are arresting resurrectionists and putting them in the l'enfitentiary. They never do anything to resurrectionists on a race track. There was a grave or two opened up yesterday.

If the track is dry to-day the Carr gats will be used to start the second race. If the track is muddy the gate will not be used. One of its alleged faults is that it is hard to operate on a muddy track. It moves on two-wheeled trucks and is very heavy.

Every one who saw the gate work admits that it is second in criticals. Every one who saw the gate work admits that it is sound in principle. If not in practice. The principle of it is this: If your horse does not get off it is his own, the jockey's or the owner's fault. The starter is not to blame. The horse is there, has an open track and is faced to the front, when the barrier is released. If he does not broak the starter is not responsible. This last is a distinct advantage. If people bet on, or start, a bad actor and he refuses to break they know it is not the starter's Though Zonne has been running bad races.

It is a war an unreasonably long price against him. Many of the so-called favorites, notably Bengal, Kisme, Elastic, Light Opers and others were at unreasonably about prices.

Jockey Dale had a bad day. His rides on Elastic and Bengal were bad, Both horses were favorites, and Kisstic ran an inex-me horsemen deprecate the machine. Bome horsemen deprecate the machine. They claim that its trial on Sunday was not a fair or true test, even if it did get bad actors going. Horsemen say that the horses were coid, there were no colors up, no excitement, no boys trying to beat the flag, in no owners or bettors promising them handsome presents if they won the race, no "dope" and no music, no cheers, nothing.

Others claim that the machine is too unwelly and too hard to handle, especially in mud, and that it could not be used on tracks with an infield like that of Delmar or any track where the infield is rough or the track above or below its level.

These objections should be easily overcome. Others may that in case one horse runs away there would be trouble getting the machine out of his way before he ran around to it, that other horses might rear or kick over the stalls and hurt hove see ing is quite a medium of speculation in California. The parks operate two days each fornia. The parks operate two days each week, Saturday and Sunday, and huge same pass through the pool boxes each day. The stakes are very valuable, one worth $6,000 heing run for last week.

The trainers of the greyhounds found that certain stimulants made their dogs run faster, stay longer and work keesner. They began the turdman's tricks of using stamulants.

Say, and the coursing man—he was a ferman happe you gif me some ov dot hop and light it to main tog and he run some faster min'd it? "All right," said the howman light in they did not want to bet. Dogs ran in and out just like horses 60.

The coursing association took notice of the practice. They rise took steps to stop it. Their plan was to have association kennel nearly every dog running was obliged to go before noon of the day me ran. On the roof of this kennel were look out boxes, each tenanted by a detective. The trainers could not see the man who watched them, but the watchers could see them.

This stop at once stopped the practice of "You have had a great season, Parner,"

Speaking of bookmaking, the methods of the co-operative bookmakers seem to be getting the money, if one can believe all he getting the money, if one can believe all he getting the money, if one can believe all he getting the money, if one can believe all he getting the money, if one can believe all he getting the money, if one can believe all he getting the money, if one can believe all he getting the money, if one can believe all he getting the money if one can believe all he getting the co-operative bookmakers of the ring. In Chicago, and the race irack but the co-operative summs of the ring. In Chicago & J. Arnold & Co. seem to be winning.

Every day papers carry news of their betting coups, the victories of heir horacs, etc. Arnold & Co. are from St. Louis and cut a wide swath in local rings before they wint to Chicago.

The Cincinnail papers carry stories of the bare winnings of John J. Ryan & Co. and one at St. Louis, and one at St. Louis, and one at St. Louis, and one at St. Louis firm, now located in Chicago, is also courting fortune through the co-operative scheme.

The old-line small bookmakers seem to be overshadowed by the signatify methods of the big co-operative bookmakers. The old-line small bookmakers are to be overshadowed by the signatic methods of the big co-operative bookmakers. The old-line small hookmakers are to the old-line average bookmaker, whose operative fellows cannot pay the dividends they do, because they—the old-timers—operating on private large capital gives them a huge advantage capital gives them a huge advantage capital gives them a huge advantage capital structure. The men of new methods hay stress on the fact that their large capital gives them a huge advantage capital structure. The men of new methods hay stress on the fact that their large capital gives them a huge advantage of the process of the structure of the process capital and resources.

The big co-operative bookmakers claim that nine-tenths of the bookmakers doi business in the West control a capital of less than $10,000.

This small capital, the big fellows say, makes it impossible for the small fry to support a fully equipped information burvait, betting commissioners, etc. and prevents them from taking much money in on a race and limits their sphere of operations. The big fellows point out that it coets them no more to do business than it does the little fellows; that they pay the same rent, clerk hire, etc., as the man with $5,000 cupelial, and do ten times as much business. The co-operative bookmakers say that the dividends are encessive, but the exceptantive fellows seem to be doing business. All you can hear in Chicago is what krould is doing, and in St. Louis it is what krould is doing, and in St. Louis it is what Ryan is doing, and in thischmat h seems to be the same way. The opponents of the system will figure for you where the co-operative system cannot pay such attained. Then the co-operative fellows go on and pay the divisord, and there you are.

While the scheme is pertage not a safe as Government boths or malianal bank stock, it seems to be successful so tar, and probably may be as safe a method of turn speculation as crists.

Many so-called safe bettors will aim to win from $25 to fine each week off a capital of $60 by playing what they term "cinch" betz. When one of these bein goes wrong these is always a lag leash, as they are unainly made on very short-priced horses and marrintee to pay 5 per cent, with capita subject to withdrawal at any time.
